“Sold-out for God”

Randy is an energetic and outspoken guy originally from Michigan who was the middle child of five and raised in a Christian home. He attended and served in the church all his life, did things that were traditional and religious, and served as a deacon. However, Randy was having problems at home and with his businesses but, it was not until he came into relationship with God did life really change and have meaning for him. Randy’s marriage improved as did his relationship with his four boys. He later began selling off his possessions including his landscaping business of 16 years that at one time had as many as 22 employees.

As a result of Randy’s changed heart, he had a huge desire to study more about God and read scripture 40 hours a week for two and one-half years. Now, he has come to School of the Bible ahead of his family who are in the process of selling off the remaining parts of the landscaping business and their house with plans to join Randy in late November. Randy says that, “My dream is to be ‘all I can be’ in Christ. I truly would like to be an example of Christ through me not only in the words that I say, but most importantly in the example of my character. I would love to make a significant difference whether it is for two people in Africa or 10,000 people in America.” People like Randy are incredible examples of how God can liberate people’s heart use them to teach and lead others and in the process bring liberty to mankind.

“Selecting Pastoral Care Groups” group (above). Students are then traded and moved to bring about a balanced dynamic with regards to age, culture, and marital status.

One of the activities done with the set-up of a new school is the selection of pastoral care groups. These groups provide a point of personal discipleship through the application of the life lessons the students are acquiring during the school and its peripheral activities. The process starts with pastoral care people putting names of who they initially would like in their

“Hospitality House”

The house that I bought in January of 2002 was always purchased with the idea of sharing it with others. I believe the things given to us are not necessarily for our own consumption but, to be used to bless and encourage others. Here are some pictures of some recent activities at my house and other events over the past several weeks (over).

- Continue to develop a deeper, loving relationship with Jesus Christ
- Do well with my new responsibilities as Classroom Coordination Team Leader
- Need new laptop computer

Prayer Requests:

Sincerely,

Editor's Note: Due to my involvement in America for Jesus in Washington D.C. a huge gathering of Christians coming together to pray for this country October 18-24th, I apologize for not sending you a letter or quick handwritten note in this update. Plans for a trip to Ohio this fall have changed to a later date and I will keep you informed of the next time I will be coming to the Buckeye State.

Well, if you are in Texas you will eventually ride a horse.

Going away party for Jessica who is helping start to School of the Bible SouthAfrica next year. She had to leave early for Zimbabwe due to her sister getting killed in an car accident. Please pray for Jessica and her family.

Picture here celebrating my friend Phoebe's first birthday.

Grading party where the staff get together to grade exams.

Before the new school began the staff got together for a BBQ at my house.

This is Lawrence from Kenya, our last student who arrived October 8th.

Here the Biblical Education and Leadership Training Team who are preparing to establish themselves in Papua New Guinea next year have their weekly meetings at the house.

Staff and students get together for game night.

If people are coming over, I will usually make cookies.
